VERY PLAINLY DIVIDED

By Leased Wire to The Tribune. NEW YORK, Feb. 19-"It has been practically demonstrated that a missle can be dropped from an airship to strike any given spot below," de-clared Clifford B. Harmon, pilot of the Aero Club of America, who has just returned from the west, where he took returned from the west, where he took part in the grent aviation meeting at Los Angeles. Discussing the possibilities of the flying ship in warfare, Mr. Harmon declared to a representative of The Tribune today that, "with trained aviators like the Wright brothers. Louis Paulhan, Glenn H. Curtiss and Hamilton an aerial attack on a battle-ship fleet would be no holiday affair. "Battleships even of the Dreadmaght class would have no show against it. "While an airship could carry on one trip all the explosives it probably would need to destroy an invading fleet, it could reload quickly if necessary. Paulhan after taking me twenty-six miles out to sea, returned and landed me within ten feet of the starting point. This means that the machine can be absolutely controlled and could leave and return to the fort of defense without difficulty. The battleship would be defenseless against the nirships. The aviator could easily keep out of effective range of any gun aimed at him without endangering the accuracy of his own aim. Added to this, it is extremely hard to fire with accuracy at an object in the air. I recently tried a series of experiments with my air ship the New York, shooting at it from the ground when I was going at a fair rate of speed 400 or 500 feet in the air. It was found impossible to make a hit. And one of the greatest things about the airship for fighting mirrosas is "While an airship could carry on one ip all the explosives it probably would

Mr. Maxim takes issue with the aviator. When Mr. Harmon's interview was shown him today at his Brooklyn home the inventor of rapid-fire guns and explosives laughed heartily. 'I don't doubt Mr. Harmon's statements of fact.' said he, 'but his conclusions amuse me. In the first place knowledge concerning the action and effect of explosives would destroy any expectation of annihilating modern warships with bombs dropped upon their decks.
